Hi Catherine, thanks so much for the transparency on this,

Whilst presenting x8 days earlier than a competitor is a significant disadvantage for us, we had entirely as our opinion is it's critical that both Jess and yourself are able to join the pitch meeting. We be putting significant energy into the process and it's a significant a decision for you both to be comfortable compromising on the in person for pitch day.
Regular day-to-day is totally fine and works well on Teams etc, but this process is much more challenging.

So to confirm... we're ok with continuing with our presentation ahead of Easter, knowing of Easter. Our aim will be to send you off into your break so excited and so inspired with our reflecting time will become an advantage to us.

Nevertheless... would you also be open to us sharing an update of our presentation post- pitch align with the other agency's timings? What we will do with that additional time is refine a touch pitch meeting discussion, and just keep going on things like ballpark production stuff (eg pencilling etc) to inch us further along so that when agency appointment is confirmed we're ultimately 3% market asap for you.

Ideal re Brand Ambassadors confirmation for Monday, looking forward to meeting everyone.

Thanks, Olly

... to send you off into your break so excited and so inspired with our response that the extra reflecting time (Easter) will become an advantage to us!!!

Recapping the opportunity

Together, transforming the future of your brand into the bank that leads the change.

The Co-operative Bank's opportunity starts with a problem. New Zealanders are disillusioned with the banking category but don't know about you or your point of difference.

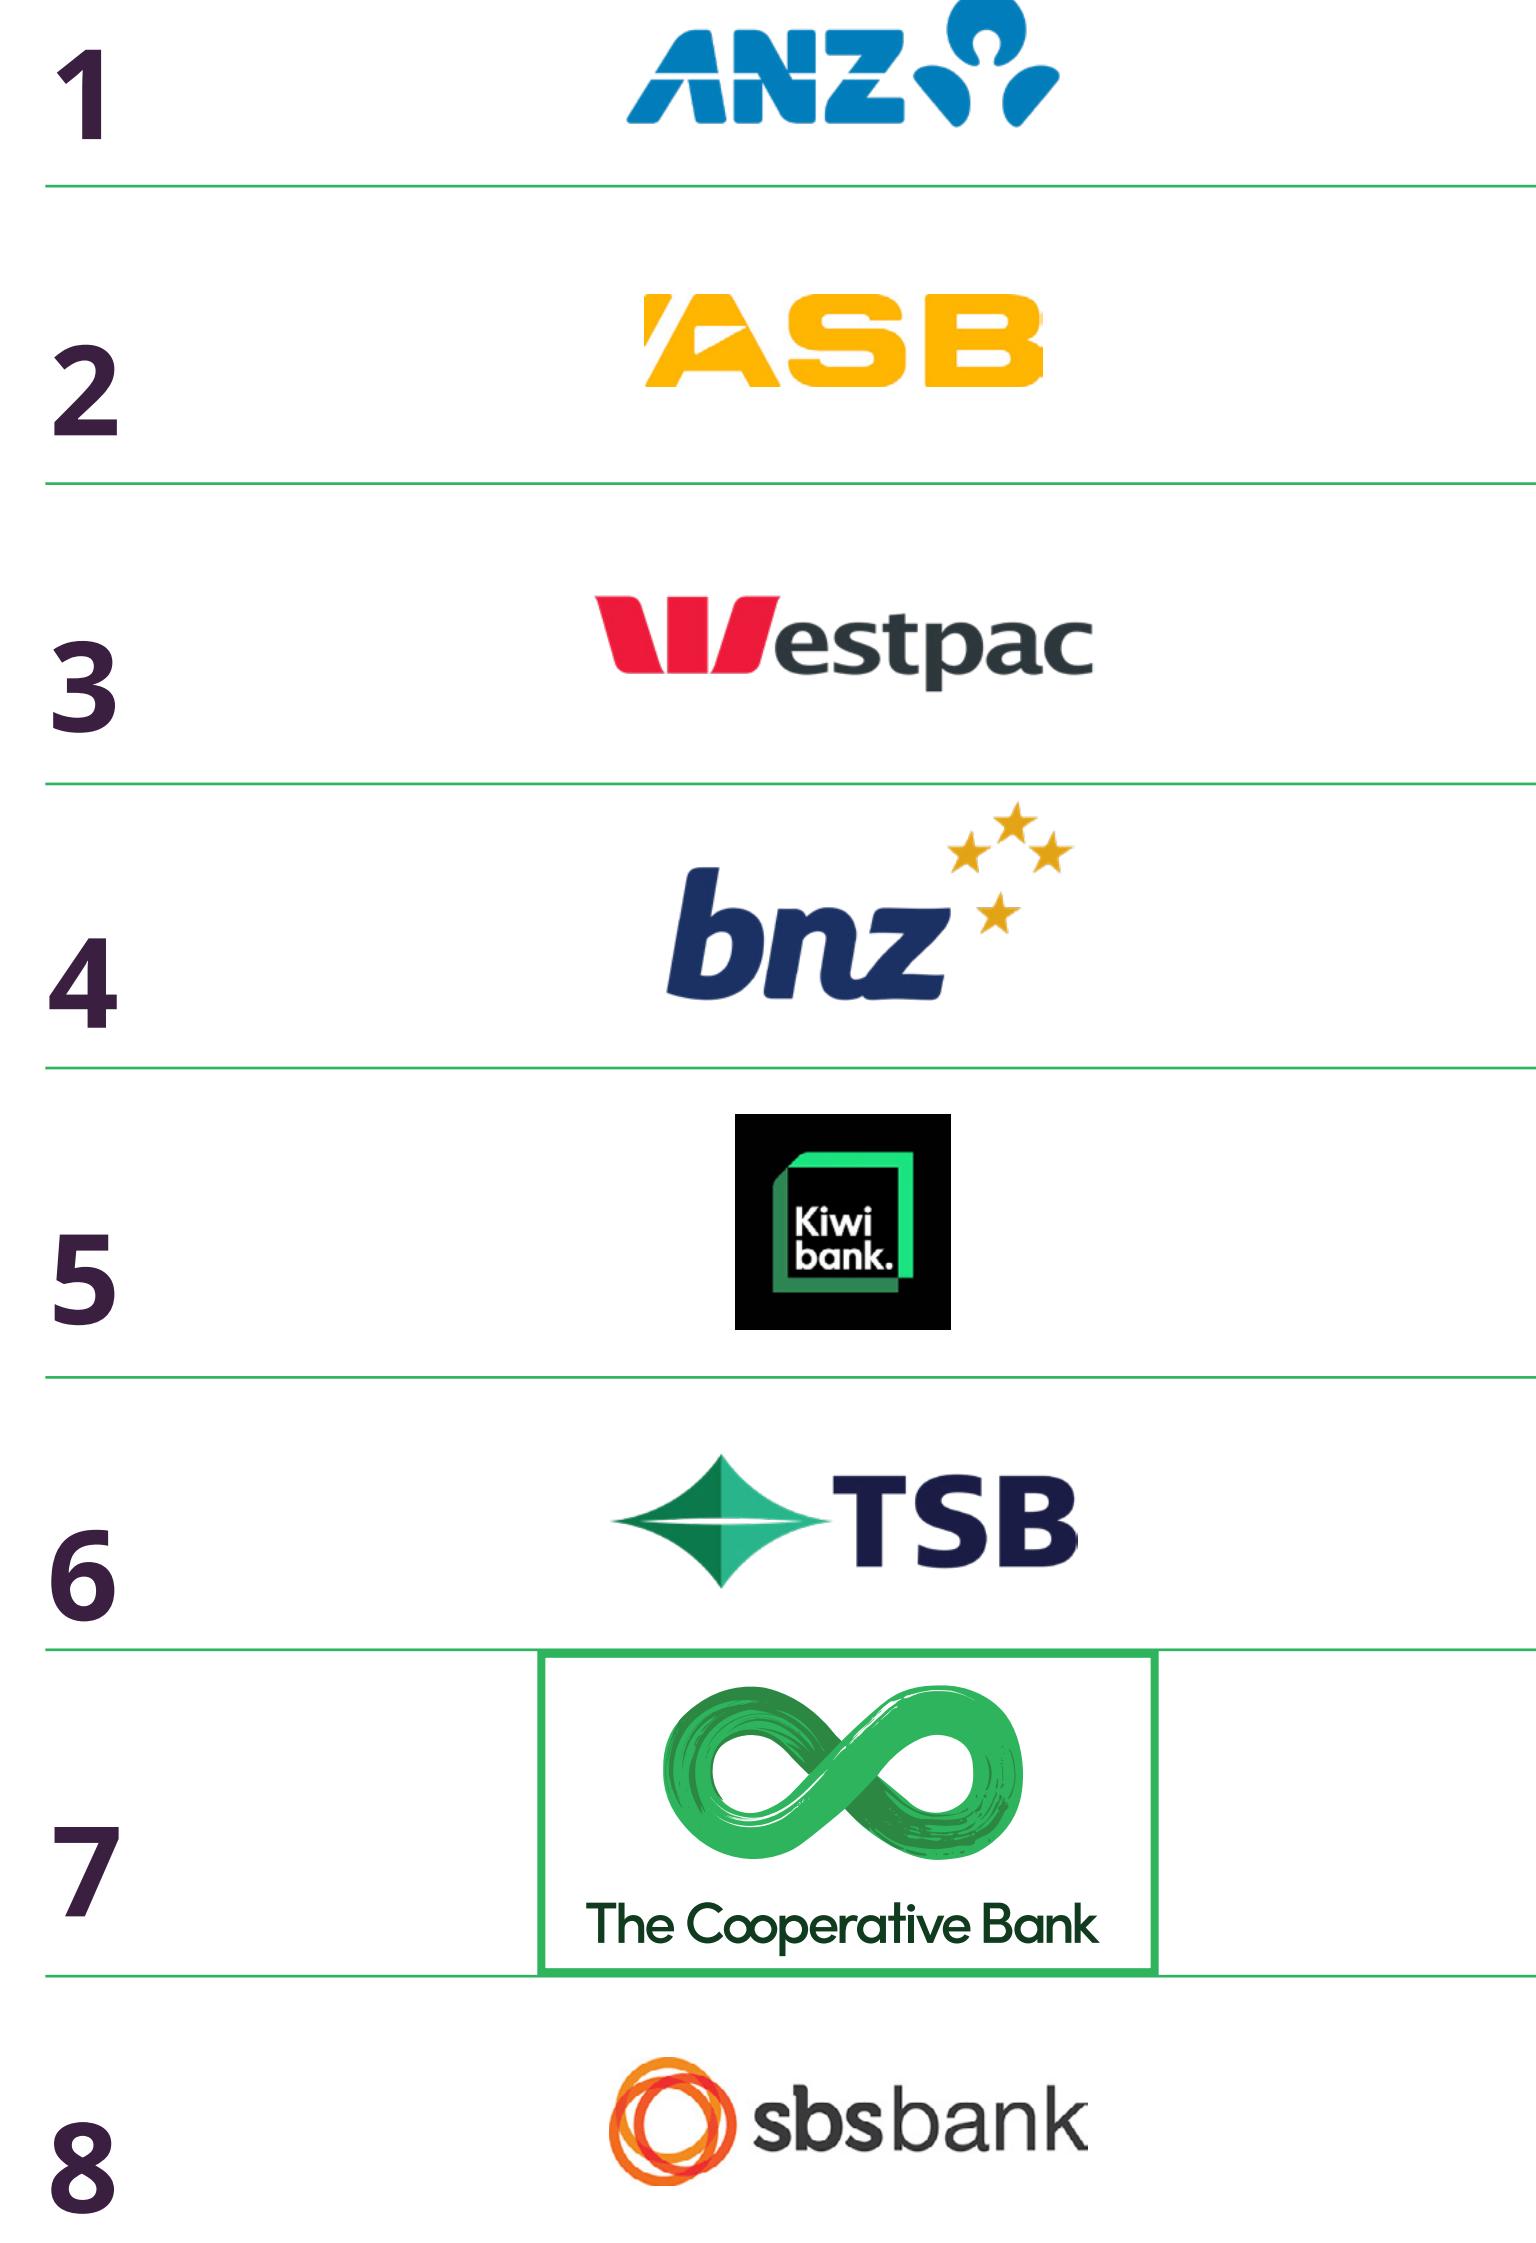

Other banks treat customers differently and ship billions offshore, yet The Co-operative Bank consistently ranks at the top for customer satisfaction.

"It's time for someone to take charge and lead the change that the banking industry needs?"

"The bank that's a better way. Motivating all Kiwis to make better financial decisions. The bank you can expect more from."

Your objectives

BUSINESS

- Stay at #1 in customer service and Bank NPS
- Increase target audience consideration for sustained balance sheet growth of 8% p.a. for 5 years, reaching $4.7b of total assets by 2028
- WIN in home loans, Life Insurance and Kiwisaver
- Deliver innovation as a faster challenger

MARKETING

- Leverage your purpose of “Grow together to share the gains” to accelerate brand consideration and market share
- Build a brand platform that makes you bank of choice for 1st and 2nd-time home buyers
- Build a brand that reflects the values of your people and why they choose to work for The Co-operative Bank

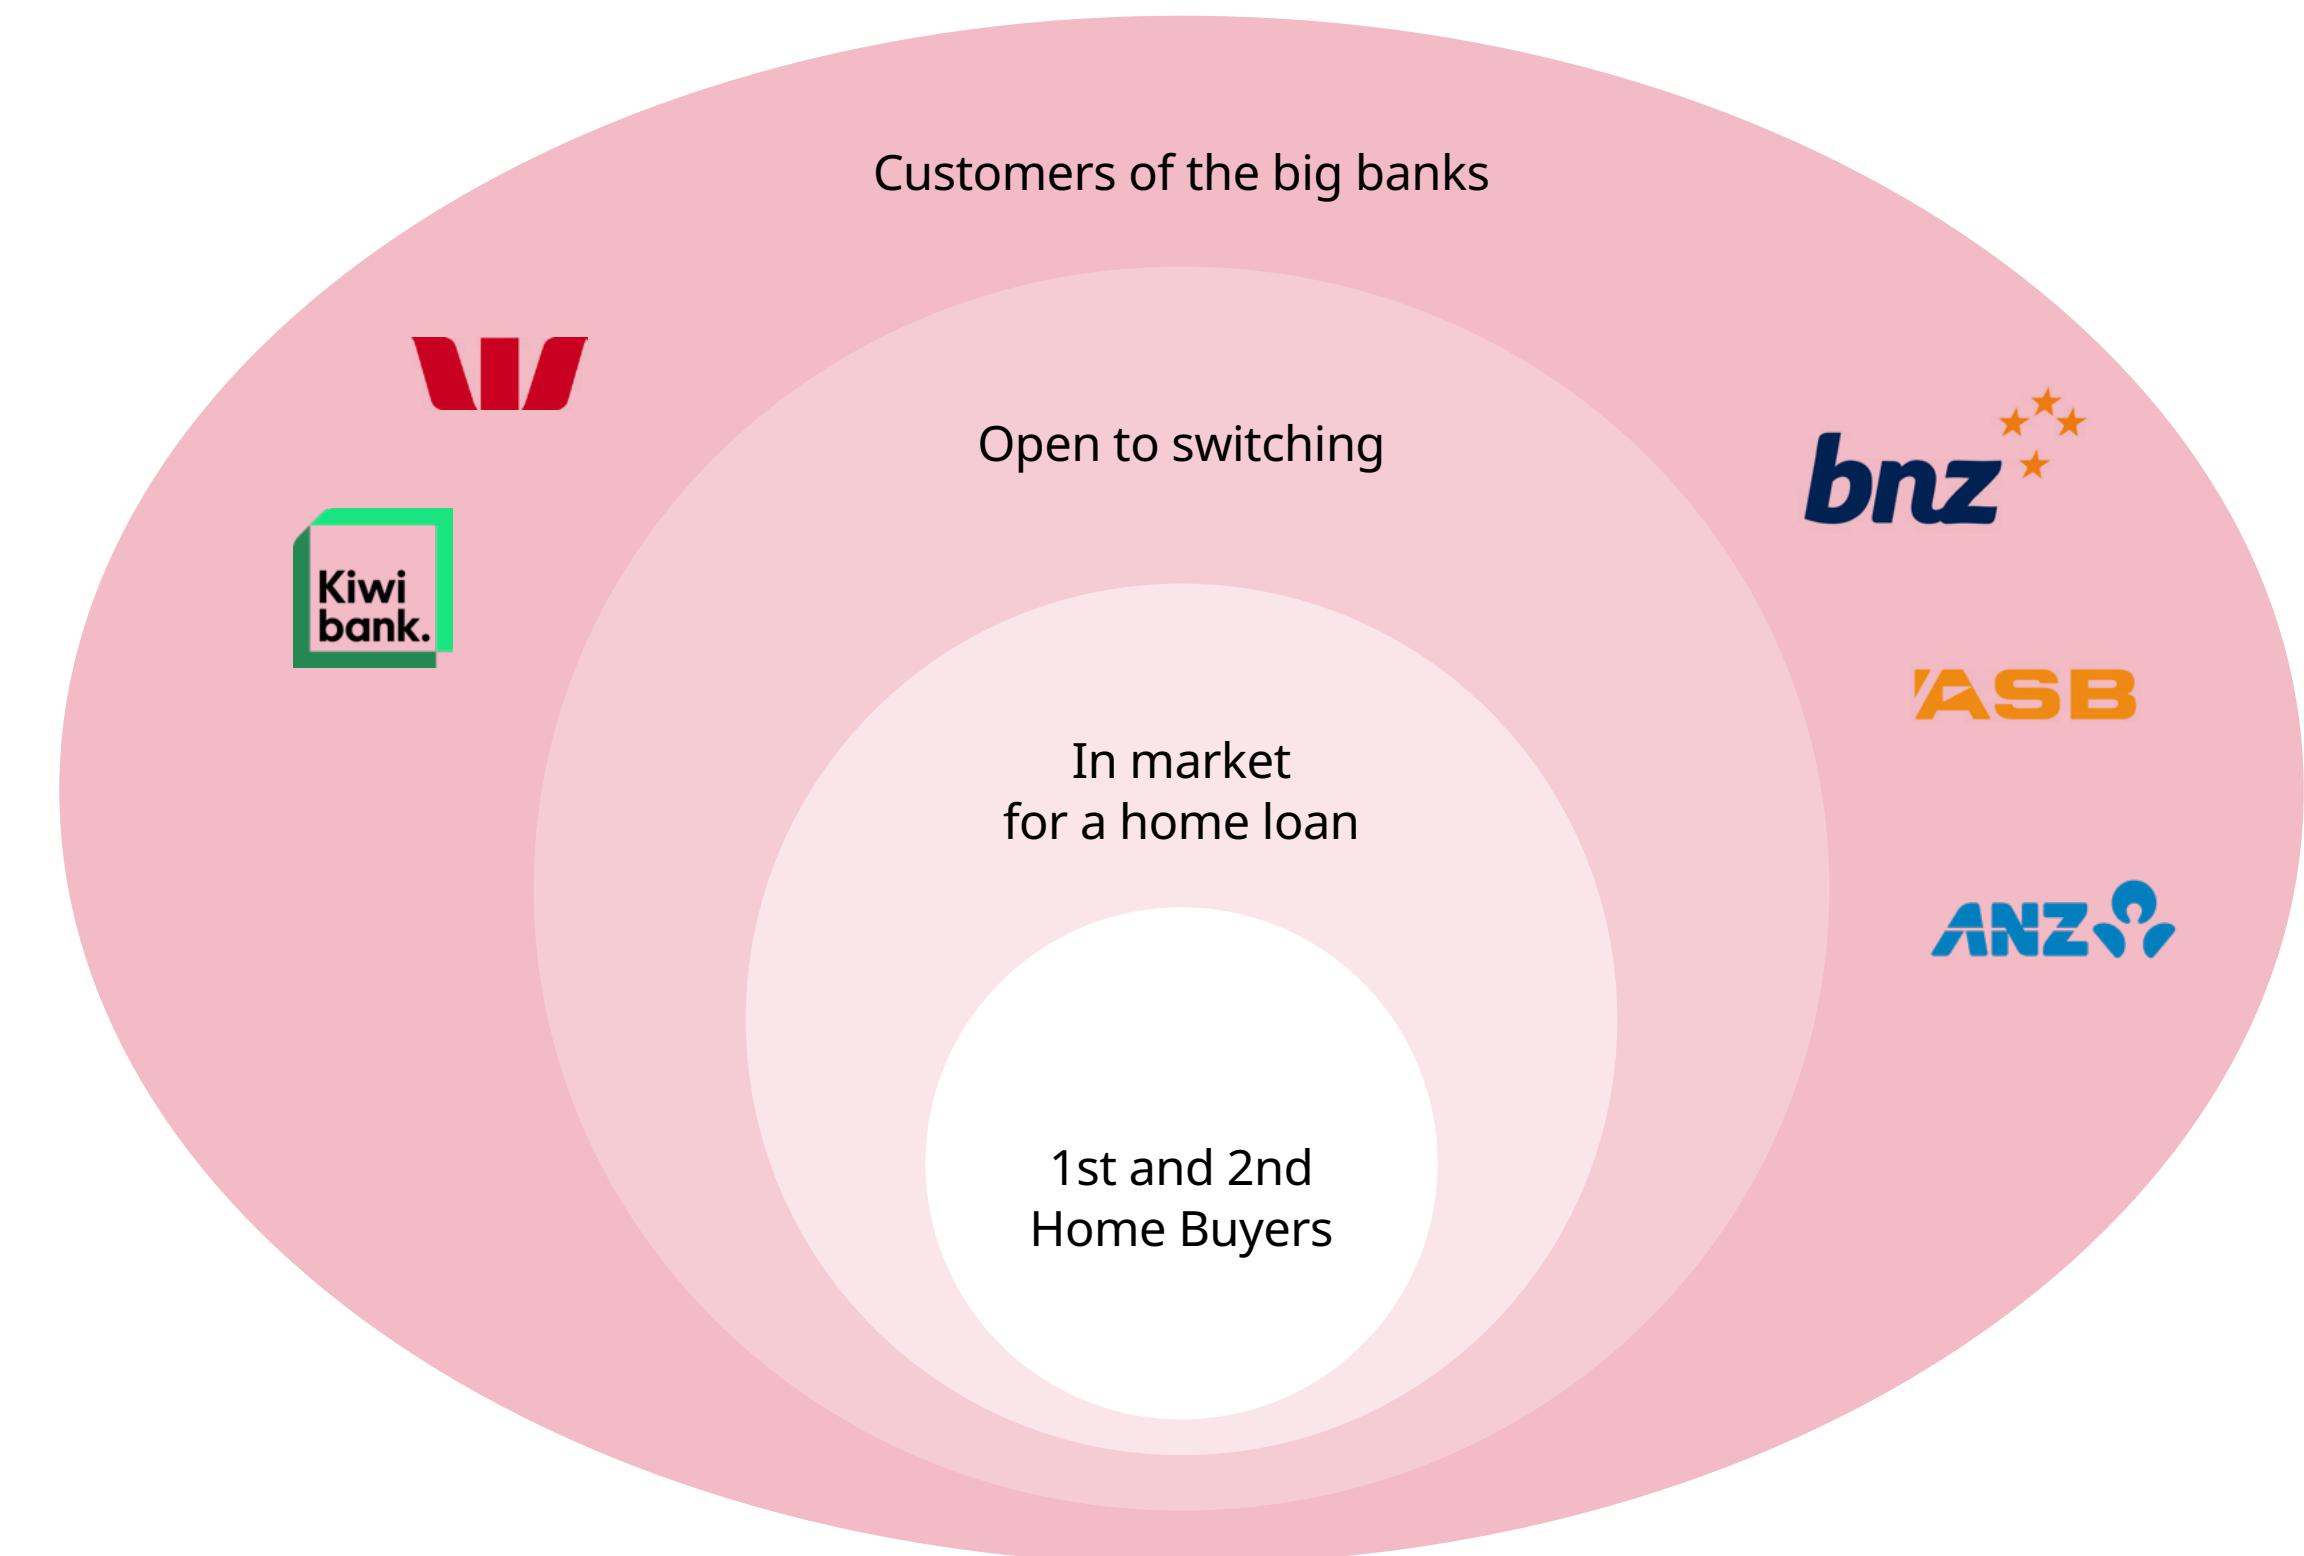

COMMUNICATIONS

- A flexible, enduring brand platform that brings to life your researched proposition of ‘Let’s fix banking’
- Downplay ‘playfulness’ while upweighting banking expertise
- A reusable creative platform that can create multiple campaign activities

Our strategy targets customers of 'the big 5'.

When it comes to getting a home loan, they are not always confident in the process. And when it comes to switching their mortgage to another bank, it needs to feel right – both the bank and the offer need to be good.

To make sure they choose The Co-operative Bank, we need to demonstrate we understand them, their lives and their unique emotional and rational drivers for a better way of banking.

Mortgages are the biggest driver of brand consideration.

While you have low consideration, BNZ and Westpac have a brand consideration issue too.

Your opportunity is now.

The action people are most likely to take when actively considering a bank is visiting their website to find out more, highlighting the importance of the role of our website.

The size of the home lending prize: Your most vulnerable competitors' loan books total nearly $120,000m, just on their own.

This is an acquisition by envy task, and BNZ and Westpac customers are more likely to be unengaged, and more likely to be envious of Co-operative Bank customers.

THE INSIGHTS

Culture

Evolving face of Kiwi identity

- Multiculturalism
- Cultural codes
- Balancing global influences with local nuances

Economic headwinds

- Threat of recession
- Cost of living crisis
- Inflation
- Housing affordability

How we work & live

- Household make-up
- Employment status
- Population movement

BRUTALLY SIMPLE THOUGHT

As New Zealand evolves, brands that represent New Zealand need to keep pace or risk being seen as less relevant.

Consumer

Balancing Me & We

- Convenience & Ease
- Family & household security
- Social & environmental consciousness

Optimism and realism

- Making active & positive life choices
- Short-termism as a necessary evil
- Head vs. heart

Brand choices represent convenience or values alignment

- Reliance on brands as a utility
- Values alignment trumps brand status
- Open-minded to “better” solutions

BRUTALLY SIMPLE THOUGHT

Community Minded Kiwis are actively balancing decisions around short-term individual needs and longer term personal and societal benefits.

Category

BRUTALLY SIMPLE THOUGHT

People are under the illusion that bigger is better in banking and default to the status quo.

Big is a shorthand for successful

- Correlation not causation
- Stability and Stature
- 'Bankiness'

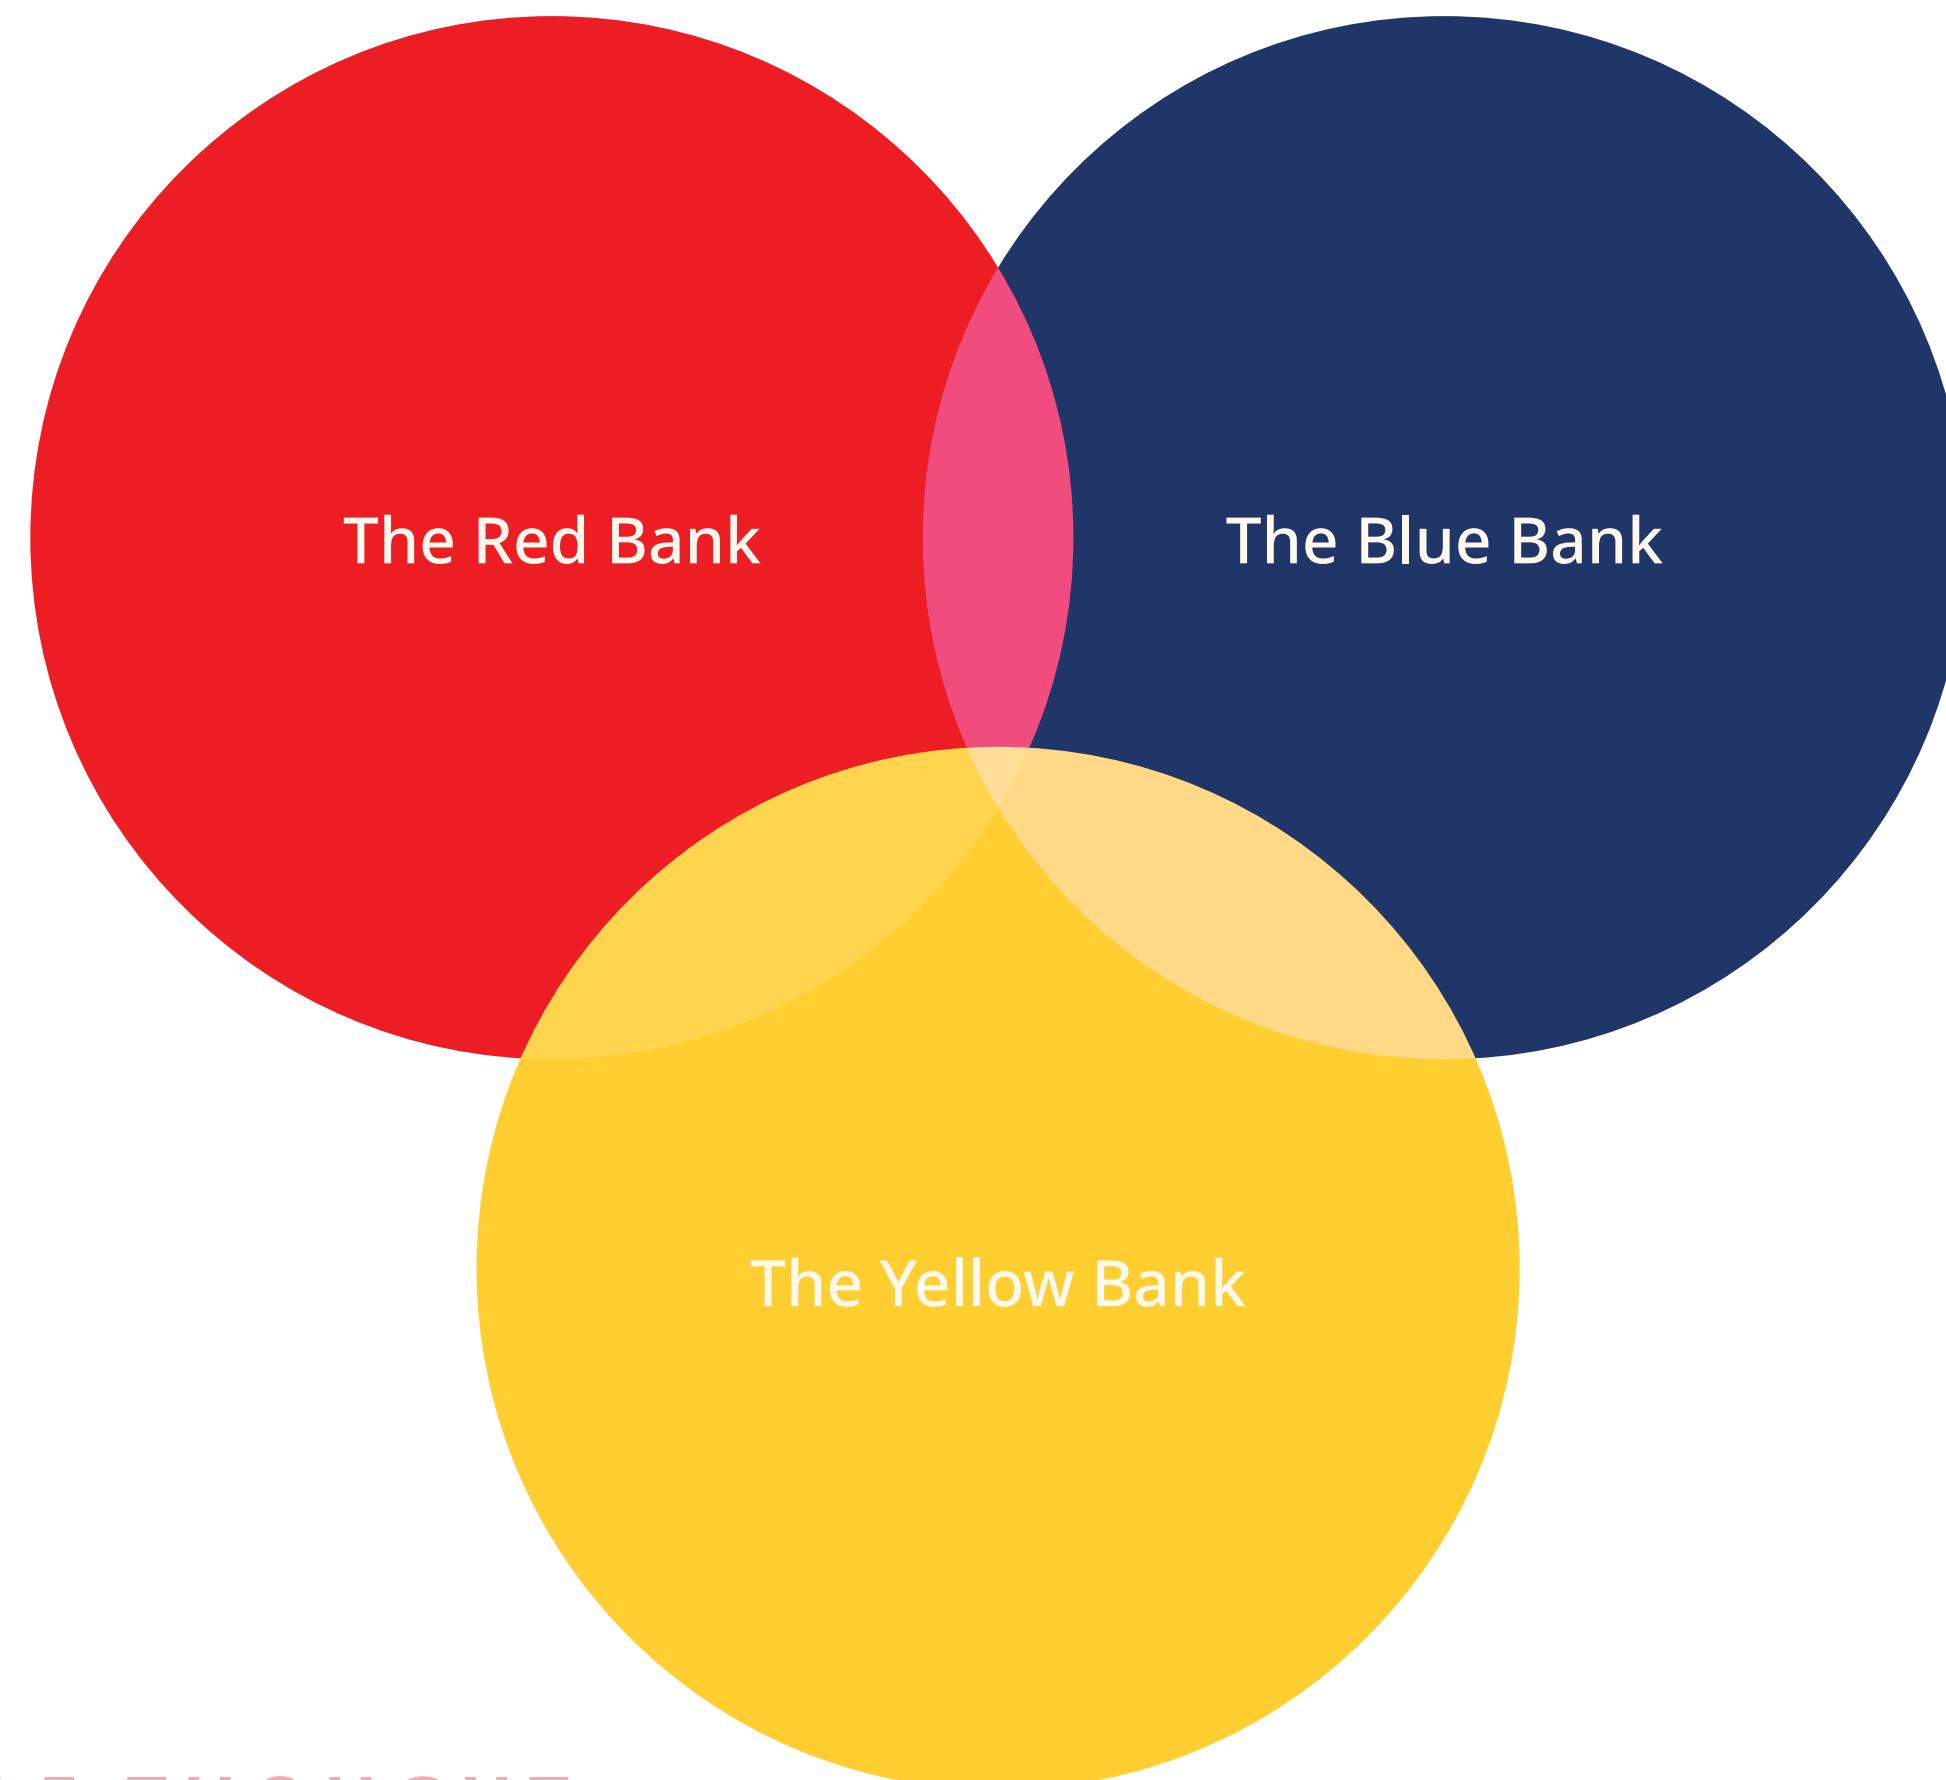

Limited perceived differentiation

- Different colours, same offering
- Auto-pilot behaviour
- Make the right noises

Split priorities

- Social licence to operate
- Diverse customer bases
- Return on capital vs customer centricity

Competitor

BRUTALLY SIMPLE THOUGHT

Different colours, same stripes.

Big-5's need to soften their image

- Profits offset by likeable brand personalities

Kiwibank trying to “grow-up”

- Compensating for past perceived short-comings
- Desire to be seen as more corporate
- Very ‘business’

Fitting in vs standing out

- Brands rushing towards middle ground
- Market share dictating mental availability

Company

BRUTALLY SIMPLE THOUGHT

We balance understanding customer motivations (EQ) with the right amount of bankiness (IQ) to help our customers achieve their financial goals.

Awareness is nothing without understanding

- Need to educate about us
- We need to own our differences
- Our name is our biggest asset

Challenging perceptions of what good looks like

- Shift conversation beyond size
- Having a fight, not picking one
- Singleminded audience

Balancing standing out (EQ) and fitting in (IQ)

- Our people (humanity & empathy) are known
- Increase perceived expertise and 'bankiness'

People's Champion

The People's Champion is a brand with a mandate: it is standing up for a group of people short-served or exploited by the establishment for too long. However, this challenger is an agent of change, not just protest. It offers an alternative model for success, often creating 'people-powered' solutions with the community's interests at heart.

Shared Success

If true success is shared success, let's lean into the fact that it is part of our DNA.

THE CORE OUTTAKE

The bank that believes success is best shared

“Success is best when it’s shared.”

Howard Schultz

Shared Success

Yes, success is wonderful. But not nearly as wonderful as shared success.

We'd even go as far as to say that if success isn't shared, did it actually happen? Think of a baby's first steps. (If the parents weren't there to experience them, were they as clumsily, gloriously delightful?)

Success when it's shared helps you prosper, but it also helps others prosper too.

We believe so much in this philosophy, we built a bank on it. Even our logo embraces it - the prosperity loop which brings success, health and happiness together. It's also why our customers are co-owners and why we share our profits with them.

So yes, success when it's shared is true success.

That's why you'll see these two words proudly living beside our logo: Success Shared.

The Cooperative Bank

Success Shared

Bringing 'Success Shared' to life

Brand Layer

'CHALLENGE'

"Success is sweeter shared"

In this thoughtfully observed spot, we see Kiwis experiencing every day success leading to the rush of shared success - the best kind.

We open on a young teenage guitarist (13 yrs) going full Van Halen. For the first time, she nails the heptatonic 7 in C-minor. As she finishes, we pull out to reveal she is playing solo in her garage...no audience, no groupies, nothing. She gazes blankly into the unappreciative silence.

VO: If no one hears you nail the solo, did it really happen?

From the hallway, we see her dad poke his head around the door: Nailed it, Rickie.

Rickie's expression says it all. It may just be her dad but it still gives her the sweet grin of success.

CUT TO: We see a portly bloke (mid-50s) in sweaty running gear staggering up his driveway. He's just finished his first non-stop run round the block. He looks around. Surely, this deserves a fanfare - at least a tickertape? But no.

VO: A big day for pounding the pavements.

All of a sudden, his dog bounds up and excitedly licks his face. Smiles, sweat and slobber all round.

VO: Aww, and you got to share it too.

CUT TO: A living room where a man (late 20s) is assembling a flat pack. Instructions, bubble wrap and drill bits are everywhere. He steps back to observe his creation - a bookshelf that can actually stand upright. Miracles do happen. Or did it, if no one was watching?

VO: Wait, whaaaaat! That even looks like the picture. Go you!

Suddenly, the lights flick on and off repeatedly. From the far corner of the lounge, his partner shows her appreciation. The newly crowned DIY King takes a bow.

CUT TO: A couple in The Co-operative Bank (30s). They're anxiously fretting as they wait for news about their home loan approval. Their mortgage manager addresses camera and we realise he has been narrating the spot.

MORTGAGE MANAGER: At The Co-operative Bank, we grow together and share the gains...
(To the customers) Oh, congratulations, by the way.
(Back to camera) ..because shared success is true success.

In the background, we see the proud new home loan owners - the woman grabs her partner in an overly-enthusiastic bear hug. Knocking him off his chair, they both topple to the floor, arms and limbs flying. The mortgage manager grins. Happens every day.

Cooperation creates better

Sure, Freddie Mercury's a legend.

But it's not until you add Roger Taylor on the drums and Brian May's guitar genius that Queen really starts to rock.

Some of our competitors talk a big game about togetherness, but let's be honest, it's nothing but lip service. Not us. The Co-operative Bank has cooperation built into its DNA. Yes, it actually is our middle name. Cooperation gets stuff done.

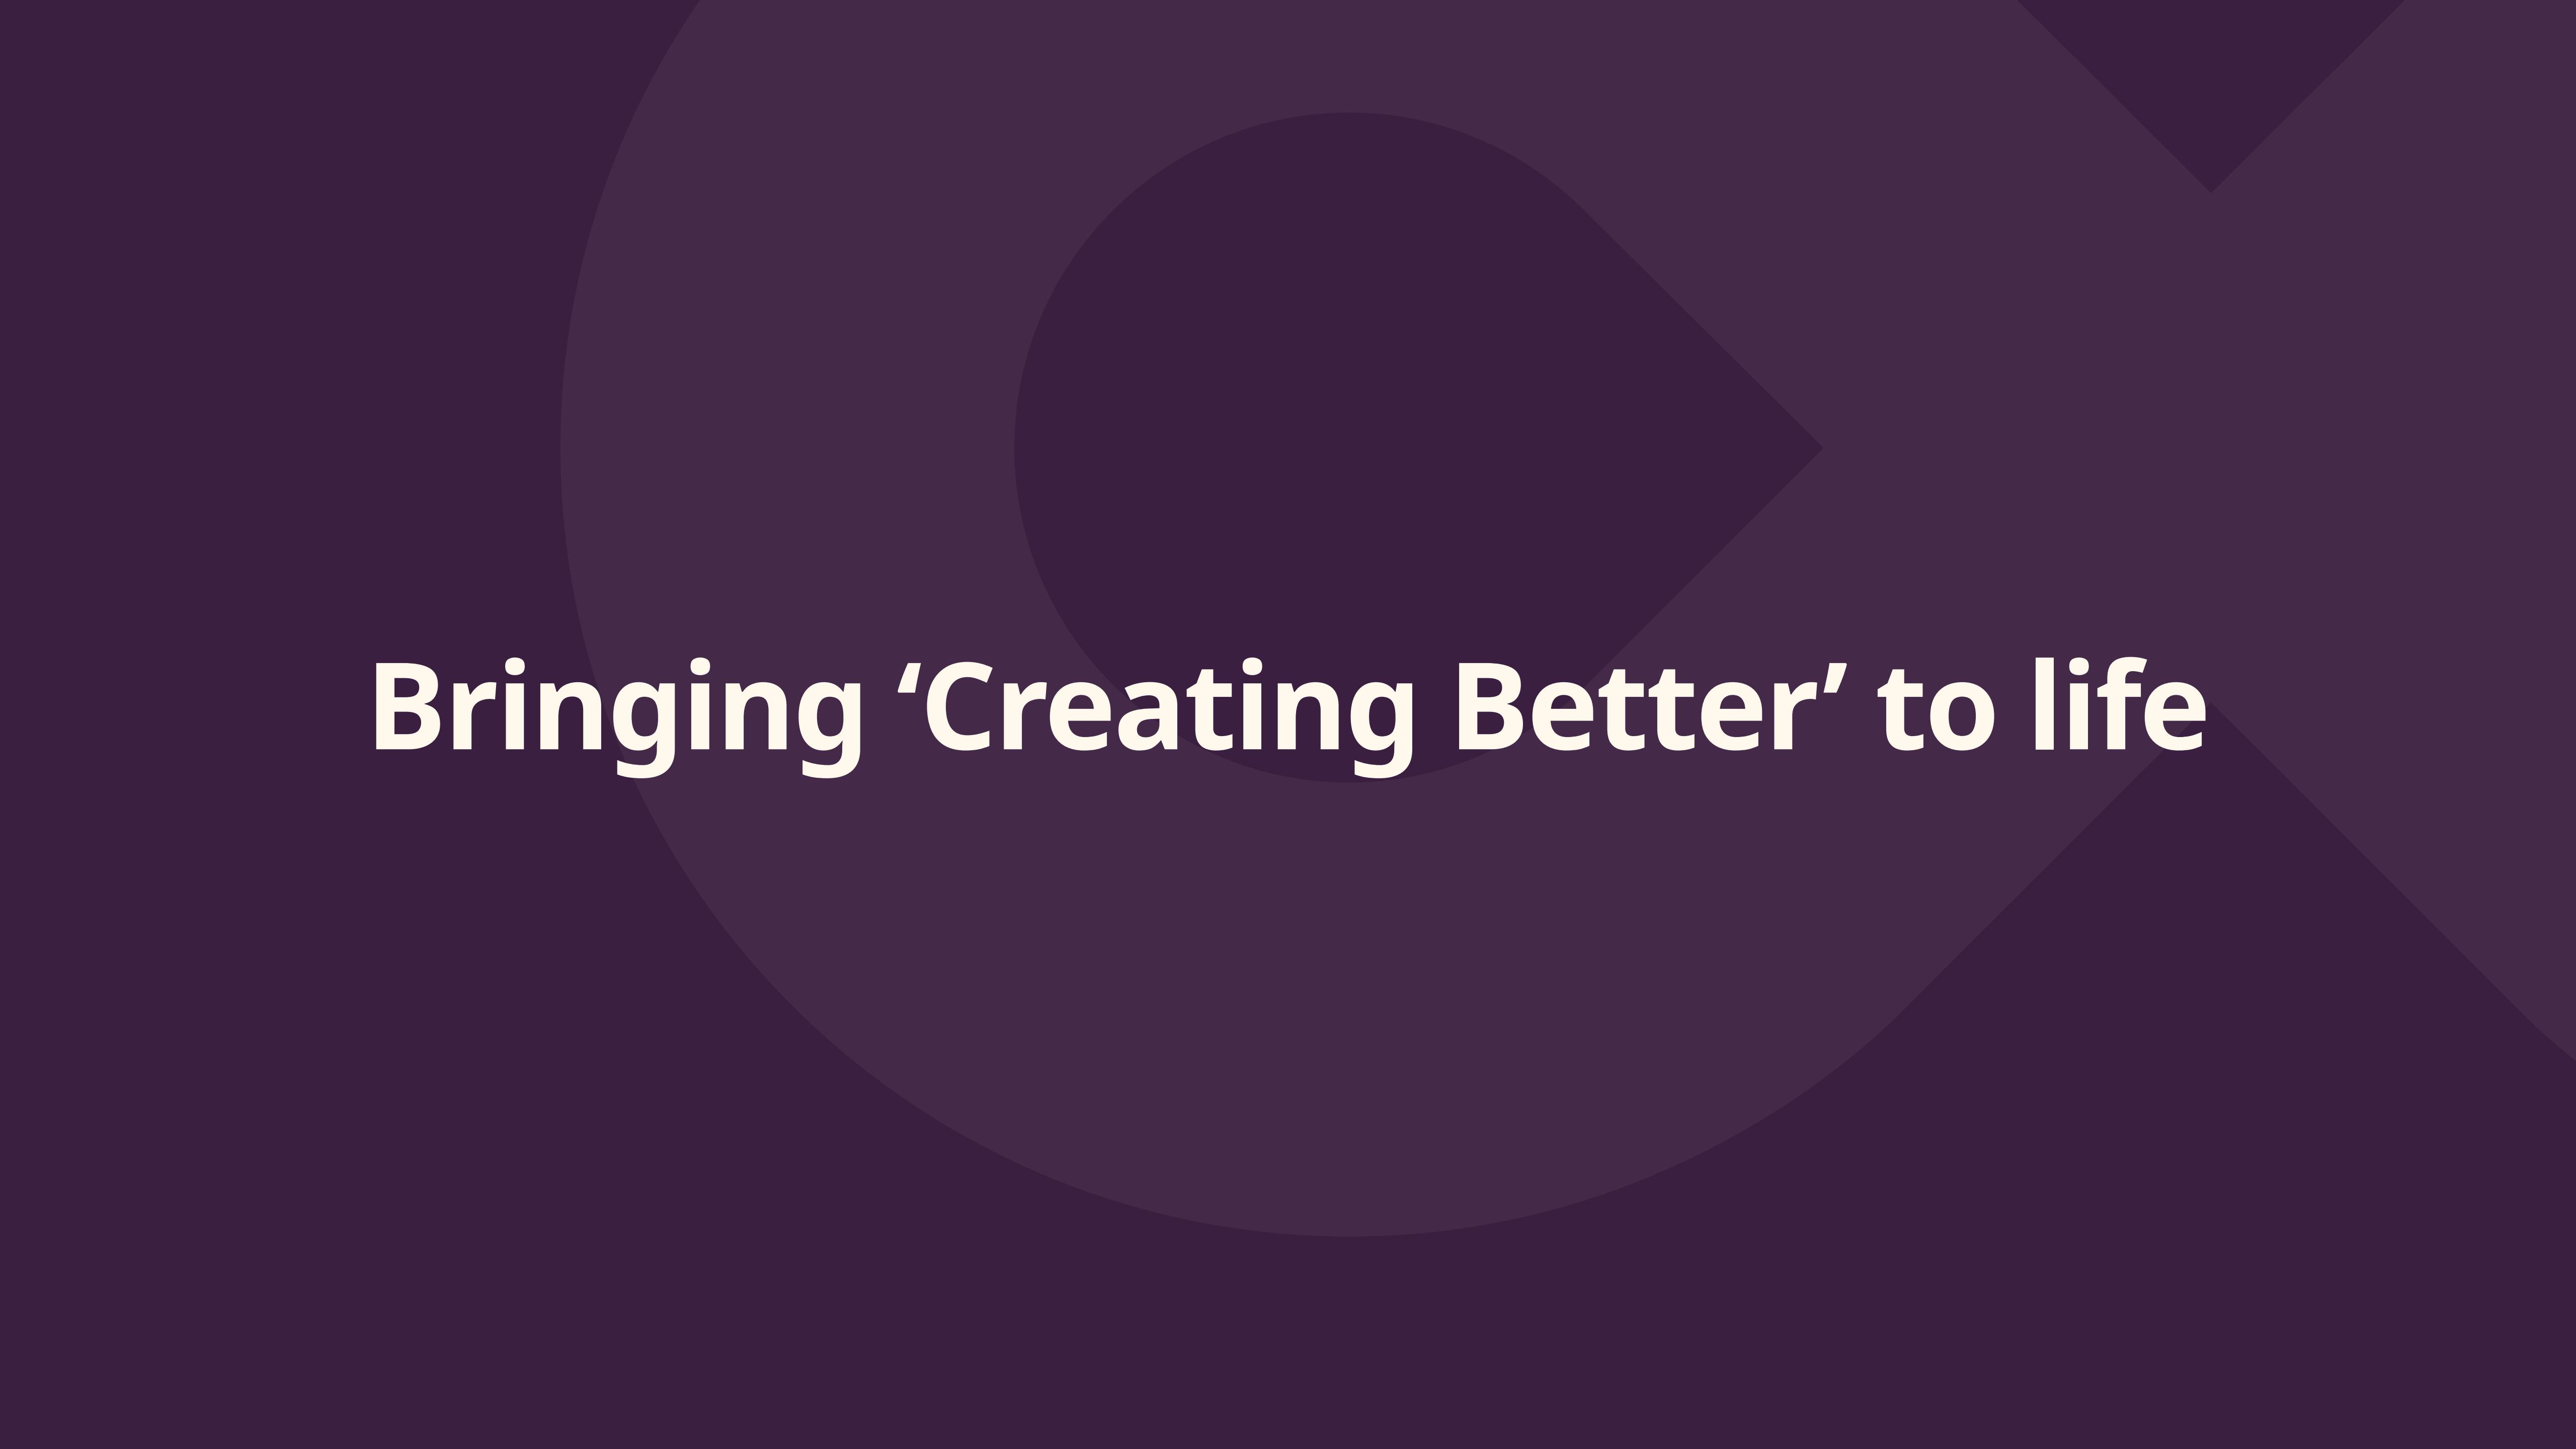

It's smarter so it finds solutions. It removes barriers and helps our customers get ahead. Cooperation truly does create better outcomes for all.

"Cooperative really is our middle name."

In this energetic spot, we follow Lucy, a confident woman (30s) on a mission. She strides through suburban streets talking to camera and her neighbours, until she reaches her destination - The Co-operative Bank.

We open on Lucy. She's walking at pace before glancing at a passing street sign. It reads, Mary-Jane Smiley St.

"Aren't names a funny thing?
They help set us apart, and make us...well, us.
'Especially those 'secret' middle ones.

"Isn't that right, Stan Geronimo Hutchison?

A bloke mowing the lawns grins in acknowledgment.

"Jeremy here has four middle names - indecisive parents."

Jeremy's on the trampoline with his kids. He rolls his eyes in confirmation.

"Anika's means free spirit."

Lucy overtakes Anika, who is the one that's meant to be power walking.

Anika looks exactly as her name suggests - yoga pants and tie dye.

"And Zoe's is..."

A woman washing her car shakes her head and hisses 'Sssssh!'
She ain't sharing that skeleton.

Our determined hero arrives at her destination - a Cooperative Bank.

"And of course, there's me...

She pulls on her jacket and clips on her name badge - We see it reads Lucy 'Cooperative' Stevens.

"Because cooperative is our middle name.
The better we know our customers, the more we can work together to make better happen.

Federation's model is one of the right inputs at the right time, by the right people.

Tony Clewett leads the overall brand platform development for The Co-operative Bank, while Tim Huse leads its application to day-to-day deliverables. This ensures both the capability and capacity needed to achieve critical milestones for the launch of your new platform. One or both may be present at most brand platform development meetings with yourselves, Olly and Dan. They are ably supported by other seasoned creative professionals including writers Bobbie McKay and Gal Stern, while our design lead Opeta Elika will lead the final design of your updated campaign platform, with Tony and Tim's input.
